

University degrees versus degree apprenticeships

Everything you need to know

Inspiring Futures are delighted to offer a free twilight inset on the 6 March 2018, at 16:30 which is being hosted by Blundell's School, Tiverton.

We are delighted to offer the opportunity for Heads of Careers and Senior Leaders to come and find out more about the changes to apprenticeships and more importantly the new degree apprenticeships that have come about as a result of the levy.

We will be hearing from Aston University regarding degree apprenticeships and representatives from the University of Bath will discuss whether a traditional university degree still presents good value.

There are many degree apprenticeships including nursing, already being delivered and many more including teaching, law and a new police degree under development. As a result, we are expecting the landscape for current Year 11 students to be much more diverse and complex.

The event is designed to provide you with up to date information to enable you to continue to offer high quality impartial advice to your students and to give you the chance to meet with colleagues from other schools and share good practice.

To book a place, please go to degreesvsapprenticeship.eventbrite.co.uk

For more information, please contact Vicki MacDonald at victoria.macdonald@inspiringfutures.org.uk